REVOLECTRIX PRESS RELEASE

We are extremely pleased to announce that a unique conglomerate of international R/C hobby companies will bring to the R/C industry a totally new experience in product design, manufacture and sales. It shall be known as the Revolectrix group, the worlds first virtual brand of RC Hobby products.

The Revolectrix group is driven by the desire to compete in the global R/C hobby market through a conglomerate of regional industry leading, small to medium sized companies thus allowing high end product development with the personal touch the customer desires.

The founding members of the Revolectrix group are ABATA ENERGY located in Singapore, FMA Direct from the United States, Aurorra Ltd from the UK and Ringel Modellbau from Germany. Each of the founding members brings to the group unique talents for R/C product design, manufacturing, marketing and distribution.

The Revolectrix group is committed to introducing high quality, fair price, true to specification innovative products to the R/C consumer. We believe our innovative consumer driven business model will propel us into the future. It truly unique and we'll finally give the end user what they really want.....real value for money products that perform.

Visit www.revolectrix.com for more information about Revolectrix, its products, services and group members. Please feel free to contact myself below for interviews or your local REVOLECTRIX representative for more information.

Yours sincerely
